

The Pool

Low fire clay, glaze, stencils

This installation was inspired by Valentin Popov's paintings of water. We began our exploration by looking at many photos, paintings, and graphic representations of water: oceans, swimming pools, . . . even the Plaza duck pond! How does water move? How does light affect the color? How many variations of blue are there? How do you represent that? Our first project was painting a water scene with acrylics. Then we moved on to clay. Every student made a tile with a water-like texture and then glazed it using a wipe-away technique. Three colors of glaze were used: Caribbean blue, royal blue, and white. The border tiles are a neon red. Look for all the different variations and movement in this sparkling, collaborative piece.

La Alberca

Low fire clay, glaze, stencils

Esta instalación se inspiró en las pinturas de agua de Valentín Popov. Comenzamos nuestra exploración mirando muchas fotografías, pinturas, y representaciones gráficas del agua: océanos, albercas, ... ¡hasta el lago de patos en la Plaza! ¿Cómo se mueve el agua? ¿Cómo afecta el agua el color? ¿Cuántas variaciones de azul existen? ¿Cómo podemos representar eso? Nuestro primer proyecto fue pintar una escena de agua con acrílicos. Luego nos movimos a arcilla. Cada estudiante hizo una baldosa con textura similar al agua y luego glaseada usando una técnica de restregado. Se usaron tres colores de glaseado: azul Caribe, azul real, y blanco. Las baldosas del borde son rojo neón. Vea todas las diferentes variaciones y movimiento en esta pieza brillante, colaborativa.
